

LEAD EXCHANGE CONNECTIVITY DEVELOPER

Maven is a proprietary company which engages in trading activities across cash equities & equity derivatives globally & market making activities in equity & fixed income derivatives on major European derivatives exchanges. Maven was established in 2011 and now has over fifty employees. Due to growth, Maven is now seeking a Lead Exchange Connectivity Developer.

This is a full-time permanent role based in London and remuneration comprises of a competitive annual base salary plus a discretionary bonus.

ROLE SPECIFICATIONS

Maintain and enhance existing connectivity infrastructure. Plan expansions to new markets, identifying unique requirements and opportunities where they exist. Coordinate projects, upgrade schedules, and timelines. Lead a team of developers, and establish best practices for development, testing, and deployment of market connectivity code.

CANDIDATE SPECIFICATIONS

Required:

- C++(11/14/17);
- STL and template programming;
- Low latency design;
- Performance tuning and analysis;
- Understanding of and optimization for modern Intel / AMD architectures;
- Unit testing;
- Intimate knowledge of multiple derivative exchange platforms; &
- Demonstrable leadership skills.

Desirable:

- Boost libraries;
- Linux systems tuning;
- Automated systems testing;
- Other programming languages.